

*Man's Flight
Through Life Is Sustained By The Power Of His Knowledge*

TO HONOR

MIKE DORSEY

Mike Dorsey is a filmmaker, television producer, programming executive, and grandson of Stalag Luft III prisoner of war, Lt. Col. E.C. "Easy" Freeman. In 2012, after significant and meticulous research into the wartime experiences of the 168 Allied airmen held at Buchenwald Concentration Camp, he released his documentary, "Lost Airmen of Buchenwald," which premiered on the Discovery Military Channel in the United States in addition to television distribution in the UK, Germany, China, and New Zealand. His documentary brought to light a little known aspect of the plight of prisoners of war and finally recognized the 168 airmen later released to Stalag Luft III. The film won first place for feature documentary at the GI Film Festival in 2012. In addition, Mike Dorsey was the driving force behind a memorial presented to Buchenwald in 2014, commemorating the Stalag Luft III airmen who, for decades, had great difficulty convincing the public they were initially held at the notorious concentration camp.

By the Stalag Luft III Community
August 2014