MAREK LAZARZ

Marek Lazarz is the Director of the POW Camps Museum in Zagan, Poland. Mr. Lazarz's passion for Stalag Luft III history and for assisting researchers and POW families is unequalled and has won him the admiration of the large international Stalag Luft III community. Most notably, he has played an indispensable role in the renovation of the POW Camps museum. Undertaken at his direction and carried through to completion under his tireless leadership, the renovation has transformed a non-descript communist-era building into an inviting and professional facility that reflects his vision for its future as an international research center commemorating the World War II POW experience. Mr. Lazarz continues to devote countless hours to the museum's improvement as a center for scholarship and as a memorial that will preserve public memory of the sacrifices of Allied POWs for generations to come.
