TO HONOR

CAROLYN E. LEMP

As a volunteer in Clark Special Collections, Carolyn Lemp has indexed hundreds of oral histories. With deft attention to detail, she has produced concise abstracts that make interviews immediately discoverable to researchers. Carolyn's focus has ranged widely—from early Academy history to the testimonies of prisoners of war, the Doolittle Raiders, and more than 200 interviews on the life of General Henry "Hap" Arnold. Her significant contributions have helped to center oral histories as a strategic library resource that can be leveraged in Academy coursework for extensive use by cadets, faculty, and staff, and be tapped by outside researchers and the media industry to increase public knowledge about the interviewees' achievements. Carolyn's talent, grace, and amazing dedication continues to make invaluable contributions to the Academy Library.

Thanks for making the Library a special and better place.
